

Trinity House becomes Patron of the RCC Pilotage Foundation

The RCC Pilotage Foundation and Trinity House Maritime Charity are pleased to announce that Trinity House has recently agreed to become the RCC Pilotage Foundation's Patron. Both charities have similar aims, in the education of mariners and the public in supporting safe navigation and pilotage at sea. This is a strong endorsement by an established and renowned maritime authority for the RCC Pilotage Foundation's work in publishing Guides and Pilots for sea areas around the world. It underlines the quality and authority of the RCC Pilotage Foundation publications. Captain Ian McNaught, Deputy Master of Trinity House said: "Having examined its work and methodology, we are pleased to have become the Patron of the RCC Pilotage Foundation. We hope that this relationship will deepen the value of their publications and broaden our relationship with the smaller vessel sailor and owner."

Nigel Wollen, chair of Trustees of the RCC Pilotage Foundation, commented: "The RCC Pilotage Foundation is very honoured to be granted the patronage of such a prestigious body as Trinity House. We are confident that this recognition will greatly enhance the work of our Foundation and we look forward to a long and productive relationship with our new Patron."

Trinity House is a charity dedicated to safeguarding shipping and seafarers, providing education, support and welfare to the seafaring community with a statutory duty as a General Lighthouse Authority to deliver a reliable, efficient and cost-effective aids to navigation service for the benefit and safety of all mariners.

The RCC Pilotage Foundation is a charity, supported by the Royal Cruising Club, which coordinates the authoring of many of the pilots in everyday use for sailing in many parts of the world. Its work is produced and distributed by Imrays, the well known marine publishing house, and by Bloomsbury. It also has self-published work – some for no charge – on its website.
